The importance of this study shows the superiority of the Islamic legislation in the subjects, which are related to the affect of the family's relationship on the punishment and its precedence when comparing it with the laws.

The importance of this study is increased due to the fact of the societies, which are having a lot of criminal cases among the family's relatives, which force us to give more explanation about the position of the Islamic legislation and the Egyptian law towards these crimes.

Method of the research:

Theoretically, I will use the analytical method, which is related to the application study for the purpose of conclusions.

The most important results of the study:

- ١- The concept of the relationship in the Islamic legislation has more wide range than the Egyptian law.
- ٢- Parents and grand parents relationship can affect on declining the execution punishment.
- ٣- There is an affect of the destitution on executing slight punishment in deliberated and accidental crimes.
- ٤- The punitive must be applied on the one whom got married to one of his prohibited in spite of that he had knowledge regarding that matter beforehand.
- ٥- For the one who ravishes with one of his prohibited, he will be killed anyhow.
- ٦- The punitive could not be executed on the father if he insults his son rather than killing.
- ٧- Parents will not punitive because of stealing money from their son, as what the jurists agreed.
- ٨- The one who steal from his relatives, but not vertical relatives such as brothers, sisters, and cousins will be punitive.
- ٩- There is no effect of the family's relationship on the forecasted punishment from God, if the crime is associated with God's right.
- ١٠- The relationship of the parents can affect on the coarsen punishment, because of no one is existed to take care of the children either father or mother if the damage may be happened because of that punishment mentioned.
- ١١- The relationship of the sons can't affect on declining the execution punishment, because it is related to killing someone with no right, which is God, prohibits. In addition, there is also the undutiful for the parents, which is considered as the greatest type of undutiful.
- ١٢- The Islamic legislation is useful all the times, but, the human laws, if it will be useful sometimes, it does not mean that it will be useful in all the times.
